

Marc J.M. der Kinderen

Managing Partner 747 Capital

Marc is co-founder and co-managing partner of 747 Capital LLC; a private equity multi manager firm focused solely on the lower end of the middle market: small cap growth and buyout funds. He oversees the investment professionals; is actively involved in fund manager selection and the firm's co-investment due diligence process.

Prior to forming 747 Capital, from 1994 to 2000, Marc was Executive Vice President of Greenfield Capital Partners, Inc. in New York, the US subsidiary of a Dutch private equity group. While at Greenfield, Marc and his team worked on private equity fund selection and co-investments in buyout transactions.

From 1992 to 1994, Marc was a private equity analyst at the Noro Group of Companies in the Netherlands. At Noro, he worked on structuring and marketing private equity funds to investors and prepared reports to the limited partners.

Marc has an M.B.A. from the Nijenrode School of Business (Breukelen, the Netherlands, 1992) and did post graduate work at Georgia State University, concentrating in finance. He also holds a B.B.A. from European University (Antwerp, Belgium, 1989).
