New ACG Denver Website Launched Features Enhanced Access to News, Tools & More

In conjunction with ACG Global, the Denver chapter of the Association for Corporate Growth proudly launched a new website on May 18, offering streamlined navigation, as well as enhanced access to tools, data, news, trends and more.

The home page of the new ACG.org/Denver greets visitors with featured events and news as well as links to valuable member tools, including ACG JobSource, Back Office Support, and Pitchbook Data. In addition, it offers quick access to Middle Market Growth, ACG's official magazine, plus updates on the organization's public policy efforts.

Dorothy Donnelly, Executive Director of ACG Denver, explains, "ACG Global understood the need for a more user-friendly site that puts all ACG member benefits front and center without losing the focus on our local market. It truly supports the investors, executives, lenders and advisers working to grow middle-market companies."

Potential sponsors and members looking to refer a friend can take advantage of built-in contact forms. Networks, including Corporate Executive Series and Leadership 20, are given top-billing. Social media followers will note the Twitter feed and LinkedIn access while members old and new will appreciate the history page. An enhanced News and Trends area offers easy access to world-class webinars and thought leadership, including those from ACG Global.

"I encourage all members and friends of ACG Denver to spend a few minutes exploring the new website," says Donnelly. "It provides information and tools at your fingertips, encouraging you to explore all that ACG has to offer."

These investment bankers find growth while unstuffing stuffed shirts

The investment bankers at Capital Value Advisors in Denver are very particular when it comes to working with a client. They take the prospect to dinner before committing to anything or even if a big deal is on the table. They want to know how the client thinks and the details of the client's business model.
